

LOCAL BUSINESS NARROWLY MISSES OUT ON AWARD

Harcar Property Investments narrowly missed out on the North Tyneside Small Business of the Year Award this weekend at a prestigious awards ceremony held at the Menzies Hotel, Silverlink.

The night was full of glitz and glamour and was hosted by local celebrity Caspar Berry (Sky Sports presenter, Byker Grove actor, poker advisor on James Bonds Casino Royale) who introduced various high profile speakers from the local area.

The ceremony had five categories and an overall small business of the year award, of which Harcar were nominated in the Business Start-Up category.

Harcar Property Investments offer investment opportunities and rental properties in prime locations in and around Newcastle Upon Tyne and the North Tyneside area. The company were established in 2006 in a spare room in Tynemouth and have since transformed into a growing business with premises in North Shields. The business now boasts over 40 properties and expansion plans for the year ahead include diversification within the industry, the opening of retail premises, a secured fund for investment and innovative developments of their website www.harcar.co.uk.

The award for this category went to deserved winners The Blue Door Project, and the overall award of the night went to local husband and wife partnership Cottage Contract Furnishers.

Ian McAllister, partner of Harcar Property Investments, said "It was a great night and was incredibly well organised. We would like to thank everyone at North Tyneside Council for organising the event and would like to congratulate all of the winners. We look forward to seeing you all at the event in 2009!"
